

Applied Biology Interview Questions and Answers Pdf

Question: 1

What is Angiography?

Angiography is a technique that is used to examine the blood vessels of the circulatory system as they are functioning.

Question: 2

What is biogas?

Biogas is the gas produced by the decomposition of organic matter obtained from farm wastes, animals and human wastes. It is used for domestic consumption in rural areas of India.

Question: 3

Write any two botanical names of major fibre crops?

Cotton fibre - Gossipium sp

Manila hemp - musa textails

Question: 4

What is plywood?

Thin sheets of wood are placed one above another with an intervening glue layer which acts as strong adhesive and join them firmly. This kind of man made sheet of wood is called plywood.

Question: 5

Define Hybridization?

It is a cross involving two or more parents varieties, species or even genera.

Question: 6

Define wildlife?

Wildlife refers to any or all non cultivated and nondomesticated plants and animals.

Question: 7

What is induced breeding?

The practice of promoting fish to breed in confined waters is known as induced breeding.

Question: 8

What is mixed cropping?

Growing of two or more crops together in the same area at the same time is called mixed cropping.

Question: 9

What is hybrid vigour?

Hybrid vigour is the superiority of the hybrid over either of the parents in growth, yield and resistance.

Question: 10

What do you mean by timber yielding trees?

Timber means wood that has been used for various constructional purposes. Various plants of gymnosperms and angiosperms are timber yielding plants.